

Sr. Metallurgist Position at Halliburton

The Individual we are seeking out for this position would have 10 + yrs experience as a Metallurgist, and clearly downhole experience is highly desirable. This Sr. Metallurgist would be a subject matter expert in standard metallic materials and processes as applied to forging, casting, welding fabricated parts and other components. Investigates use of alternate materials and/or processes. Provides input on strategic sourcing of metals and/or welding materials. Provide consultation on all applicable materials or welding technology matters. Provide technology transfer to internal and external peers and document s technology transfer when appropriate. Job role has budgetary of accountabilities that directly impact a revenue center's viability. This person contributes directly to value creation. The selected individual will have an undergraduate degree in Metallurgy, Material Science or similar discipline and 10+ yrs related experience. Completion of a Masters degree in Metallurgy, Metallurgical Engineering, A PhD and/or a Certification as a licensed Professional is also preferred.

If you are interested, please contact:

Jer Pleimling

Halliburton

972-418-3455

Jer.Pleimling@Halliburton.com